VENEGAZZÙ

From the 16th century to the present day

In Venegazzù di Volpago del Montello, on the slopes of the Riviera of the same name, in the heart of the Alta Marca Trevigiana (north of Venice), the 60 hectares of the vineyards of the Conte Loredan Gasparini farm extend. Area historically suited to the production of fine wines, so much so that in the distant 1590 the historian Bonifacio wove praise in his "Historia Trevigiana" claiming that "It has the countryside of Trevigi woods useful for many woods and for hunting ... The land produces ( ...) Excellent wines and the best is that of the Montello Riviera ", consisting of clay soils rich in iron and mineral components.

Founded in the 1950s by Count Piero Loredan, direct descendant of the Doge of Venice Leonardo Loredan (who chose the territory of "Vignigazzu" to establish his home in a splendid Palladian villa), the company passed in 1973 to the current owner Giancarlo Ball. From the beginning, the founder planted the vineyards of Cabernet Sauvignon, Cabernet Franc, Merlot and Malbec in the company estates to produce wines of high quality, adopting respect and deep respect as a production philosophy (which remained a firm point of the company) enhancement of the vine / territory link.

Behind a great wine, a man and a passion

The Second World War had just passed when, at the end of the 1940s, Count Piero Loredan sensed that something extraordinary was possible in the Venegazzù (TV) area: a wine of the highest quality.

A truly extraordinary quality in an absolute sense but even more for the territory. A territory that until then had shown great potential, but had never yet found any man with love for wine and passion for quality. So in 1951 the first "Rosso di Venegazzù" was born. Four elements of our in our TERRITORY: a beautiful work of Nature that we try to respect in various ways ... by consuming energy only from renewable sources and increasingly limiting the environmental impact of our human activity.

Our LOVE FOR WINE: which is something irrational that comes from the bottom of our heart.

Our PASSION FOR QUALITY: which is a rational and continuous tension in search of an ideal of Wine, which does not want to be an expression of an absolute style, an end in itself, but of a unique terroir: that of Venegazzù.

So one of our TERROIRS, a synthesis of the infinite interactions of the Environment with us living beings who inhabit it, with all our traditions. A balance of forces and energies characteristic of a defined, unique and unrepeatable place.
