

i Capitani

An ambitious project Our family's goal has always been to promote Irpinia: our land, hard but generous, rich in traditions and culture, naturally beautiful ...

When it all began, more than 100 years ago, our ancestors fell in love with these beautifully exposed hills and naturally suited to the cultivation of excellent fruits. Making the most of our lands, our culture and our values have been the mission of our work, of our work since the beginning. The production of wines and extra virgin olive oils of absolute quality that can give prestige to these lands are the means to achieve this goal, an ambitious project but still alive in us more than ever. The desire to communicate and open our territory to the world has motivated us from the beginning to spontaneous, sincere and always attentive hospitality.

Today, as always, supported by the desire and pride to pass on the profession of one's father, to show what our land can produce, to concentrate an emotion in a bottle, our goal remains the same: to promote the image of 'Irpinia, a land rich in flavors, traditions and culture, through a project of careful attention to detail that aims to achieve perfection.

A real undertaking

Know and love the area to enhance all its qualities. I Capitani is a family business where family members devote themselves with passion and devotion to development of their project. A long tradition behind it and a strong motivation have guided the cost development of the business. Today, after almost 100 years in our vineyards, we are able to represent our territory and the good things it has to offer at its best with a complete quality proposal: wines, oils and hospitality. The company cultivates its land and enhances its fruit by bringing the name and flavors of its land around the world. He looks after his guests and welcomes them to his estate in Torre le Nocelle in Contrada Bosco Faiano, the heart of the company where everything was born, with part of the vineyards and olive groves, the cellar and the oil mill as well as the offices and the farmhouse. Other vineyards and olive groves are located in other municipalities of Irpinia, among the areas best suited for the different denominations. The spirit, attention and passion that we put into all our activities have always been a guarantee of absolute quality. Many arms alternate in the company following the work dictated by the rhythm of the seasons, with the dedication of those who have been doing it for many years without haste: wisely. Respecting the times of nature, it is with pride, in fact, that we continue to call ourselves farmers because it is the work we do on our knees to our plants that has always made the difference.

From generation to generation the motto we pass on is a guarantee of quality:

"A good wine can be made in the cellar but an exceptional wine can only be made with hard work in the vineyard."

And this is what we always want to do ...
